DETAILED ACTION

1. The enclosed detailed action is in response to the Application and the Information Disclosure Statement submitted on September 21, 2000.

Specification

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:
Page 1, lines 7-10 are missing application numbers for the related applications.
Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
4. Claims 20-21 and 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

It is not clear from the specification nor the claims what is meant by a "dead element" or "used element".

The Examiner has interpreted "dead element" as an empty element and "used element" as an occupied element.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1, 5-7, 11-13 and 17-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dupree et al. (USPN: 5,655,133).

Regarding claims 1, 7 and 13, Dupree discloses a method for managing data elements in a bi-directionally growable data structure, the method comprising responsive to an indication that a data element is to be placed into the data structure advancing a head pointer one memory location in a direction indicated by a state of a direction flag (C 25, L 20-25, L 33-44; C 24, L 67; C 25, L 1-2 – the direction flag is the means used by the user to indicate which direction the stack grows); and placing a new data element into the memory location indicated by the head pointer (C 25, L 20-25, L 33-44). Additionally, stacks are data structures controlled by software [instructions] and thus it is evident that the above features of advancing a head pointer and placing new data into the memory are implemented as instructions in a computer program product in a computer readable media.

Regarding claims 5-6, 11-12, and 17-18, Dupree discloses a stack data structure (C 24, L 58-67; C 25, L 1-59 – a stack is a first in last out structure).

Art Unit: 2187

Regarding claim 19, Dupree discloses a processor (Figure 2; C 6, L 1-2); a memory (Figure 18, Reference 306; C 24, L 62); wherein the memory comprises a bi-directional stack (C 24, L 62, L 64-66).

Regarding claim 20-21, Dupree discloses the bi-directional stack comprising a dead element (empty location) and a used element (occupied location).

7. Claims 22-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Krosh et al, ACM, "A Multiple-Stack Manipulation Procedure".

Regarding claim 22, Krosh discloses a stack stored in a linear memory array (Figure 2); wherein as elements are added to the stack, each of the added elements are placed into a next empty memory location at an opposite end of the stack from the end of the stack that a previously added element was placed (Page 28, 1st column, 1st paragraph – Krosh indicates that the elements making up the stack space (stack comprises a stack pair) grow towards each other which indicates that the data is stored proportionally, current data is stored at an opposite end of previous data stored).

Regarding claims 23-24, Krosh discloses the stack comprising a dead element (an empty location in the stack) and a used element (an occupied location in the stack).

Regarding claim 25, it is evident that the data items are removed from a memory location at an opposite end of the stack from a location of a previously removed element so that new data may be written to the memory location in a manner wherein the stack elements of the stack are growing towards each other.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 2-4, 8-10 and 14-16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion
